Level 2 members are assigned a workspace which is theirs alone to use.

To be considered for either level contact the SBDC.

Enjoy Individual work space with secure storage areas for files and equipment then meet with clients privately in one of the conference rooms.

Counseling is also provided by specialists statewide, other members of the USU staff and outside mentors as needed.

Face-to-face counseling is the norm but we also provide help over the internet via e-mail and the ususbdc.org web site. You never stand alone.

All counseling is free of charge to the public.

Research

Local proprietary research on a number of topics is available. We also take requests! One example is an ongoing study of Drilling applications, spudded (started) wells and completed wells in Uintah County and the State of Utah. SBDC clients began receiving warnings of a pending downturn in the oilfield economy on May 15th, 2008. What would you have done with that information? What would you have avoided doing?

In addition to local research we also provide access to a State Research Center and a National Research Center at the University of Texas in San Antonio.

Almost all research is free of charge.

Training

Entrepreneur training is provided via extended courses, one-time classes, conferences and seminars.

Training is provided both in traditional face-to-face classes, and through online course work and teleconference web sites. Imagine getting a leg up on your competition while sitting at home in your pajamas eating pizza!

Topics range from Entrepreneurship and Customer Service to Business Management and Managerial Accounting.

Active members of the E-Station may attend any SBDC training at cost.
